

Over the past six months or so threats have been made against the ANC in France and there have been some strange incidents occurring.

Regarding the threats, I enclose the following documents:

| 2 | Courrier Australe Parlementaire | No 13, 2e Trimestre 1985 |

Tapping of telephones

It is quite obvious that the telephones, both in my apartment and office are tapped.

My apartment

The telephone rings around midnight or later and when I answer, the person replaces the receiver or says that it is a wrong number even before it can be ascertained that it is so.

On one occasion I made a call to London, the person to whom I was speaking excused himself because he wanted to fetch something that he wanted to read to me. We were disconnected, and when he returned we were connected again.

On another occasion I lifted the receiver to make a call and heard voices. I listen in although I could not hear what was being said. The persons ended their conversation and I went on listening. A telephone rang and a woman answered and said 'Thomson and Cie'. I was so shocked that I replaced my receiver.

When I return from a trip and enter my apartment, the telephone rings. When I answer it the person either replaces his phone or says that it is a wrong number.

The Office

On occasions when I have connected the phones to the answer phone, only one phone connects. The other one continues to function normally ie it continues to ring when a call is made and the answer phone is working. I am also able to make call^s from that phone. This might only be a technical error but I am suspicious.

Entry of office

On arriving at the office on Wednesday, 6/11/1985, the lights were burning and the door to my office was open. When my assistant arrived later in the morning and I related the incident, she was sure that the lights were all off and my office door locked when she left the previous evening.

Friday, 7/11/1985, on my arrival at the office I realised that there was no electricity. Thinking that there must be something wrong with the electricity I not not concern myself about this any further. I left the office around lunch time to go a do a meeting and did not return.

On Saturday, 9/11/1985, I received a call from my assistant who had been to the office. She said that she discovered that the electricity had been switched off at the main. I had not touched that switch and my assistant says nor had she until she connected the electricity. She also found my office door open which she says was locked when she left the previous evening. As a matter of interest, I had locked the door before I left.

Broken lock to filing cabinet

I have a new filing cabinet whose lock broke while unlocking it. I have a feeling that it had been tampered with.

Jean-Paul Horeau

This person started harassing me quite early in 1984. He would telephone for an immediate interview and was very interested in ANC's relationship with the French Government.

I have asked him on numerous occasions to send me his questions and then to await an appointment but this he has not done.

I afterwards became aware that he was phoning me just before I was to leave France for Geneva which meant that I could not see him. However, he did turn up at the office one day while I was away, which he very well knew, and questioned the person who was there about his personal details. He became quite aggressive when he was asked to leave.

After this incident he phoned again asking for an appointment and indicated that he was interested in knowing more about the ANC National Conference that was to be held. I decided to accept the date that he had proposed. A day before the appointment, he phoned to cancel it.

Before the National Conference he telexed Lusaka and requested to be accredited to it as a reporter for IPS. As far as I can ascertain IPS is a journalist's club.

In September, a day before I was to leave for Geneva, he telephoned for an interview so that he could discuss the conference. He said that he needed the interview for La Lettre de l'Ocean Indie. Since then he has not been in touch.

Being photographed

On two occasions that I am aware of I have been photographed - once in the street outside the office and once in Gare du Nord station while standing on the platform waiting for train to the suburbs. On both occasions the persons photographing me hurried away when they became aware that I was aware of what was happening.

People close to the ANC

My assistant and her husband went to a restaurant one evening. They were followed into the place by a man who took a seat opposite them. As they were watching a band that was playing music they were looking in his direction. At no time did he take his eyes off them even while he was eating.

Another person says that on two occasions when he arrived home late, there was a car parked in front of his apartment. As he drew level with the car, it sped off.
